HALE'S LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION

By WILLIAM GARDNER HALE, Head of the Latin Department, University of Chicago.

Cloth, 50 cents.

The book plans as much material only as can be written in one year; this is assumed to be one lesson a week. The entire ground may therefore be covered without leaving gaps in the pupil's study of constructions. The work is confined to those constructions which are common in Caesar. The sentences are not longer than those in other books, but they follow the narrative, are continuous, and are sensible.

The book contains a vocabulary, and most helpfully arranged tables of case-uses and mood-uses. References are given to all the grammars in common use.

D'OOGEE'S LATIN FOR BEGINNERS

I have really enjoyed an inspection of D'Ooge's Latin for Beginners. I approve heartily of the author's arrangement of the material. I am very glad to see the forms of the subjunctive mode and some other inflections, including the irregular verbs, as well as much of the syntax, placed in Part III. The unusually large quantity of carefully graded reading matter is much to be commended. The book is a distinct addition to the best means that we have for teaching first-year Latin successfully.
